Please join us in our "Let's Face It" Visual Petition campaign to save the critically endangered Hector's and Maui's Dolphins of New Zealand from extinction.

For three decades gillnets and trawling have been killing Hector's and Maui's Dolphins faster than they can breed. Hector's dolphin numbers have dropped from around 30,000 to just over 7,000. The situation is even worse for Maui's dolphins, a subspecies of Hector's dolphins, which clings on with an estimated 55 individuals, and less than 25 are breeding females. We are urging the New Zealand government to take urgent measures to prevent their extinction.
